
On the 20th of November, the whole world celebrates the day on which the United Nations adopted the Convention on the Rights of the Child. Afghanistan ratified this convention in 1994 and has expressed its commitment to fulfil the rights of the children.

Children have the right to live, develop themselves through positive experiences in life and be protected from harm, violence, abuse and exploitation.

Today in Afghanistan, thousands of children are forced to work bearing the burden of financially supporting their families. They are suffering from discrimination and neglect every day and often do not have sufficient food, health care and protection. Some of them do not get the opportunity to go to school.

The street and working children and the Child Rights Consortium invite you to the International Child Rights Day celebration at Lycée Amani (Charahi Ariana) from 9:30 to 11:30.

The event will be accompanied by two additional actions. On the 17th November. Good morning Afghanistan (Sub Bakheir Afghanistan) will broadcast a live roundtable about child rights. Street and working children from Kabul City will discuss their situation and rights interactively with listeners.
All Roshan subscribers will, on the 20th November, receive a message about child rights written by a working child.
