European Children's Network

2008 INFORMATION LEAFLET
Who we are

The European Children’s Network is a coalition of transnational and national NGOs campaigning for children’s rights at the European level. It exists to represent children’s rights organisations in dialogue with the European Union and other European Institutions.

The European Children’s Network was created in 1995 to promote issues of common concern for children and to provide an independent and strong voice across Europe, particularly within the European Institutions.

The European Children’s Network aims to promote the principles and standards of the United Nations Conventions on the Rights of the Child (1989) at the European level and to involve active participation from children and young people.

Principles and Objectives

The activities of the European Children’s Network are founded on a list of principles to which all members subscribe. These principles and objectives represent the core values that underpin the work of the European Children’s Network and are based on the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child, adopted in 1989.

- Children have a RIGHT to live without experiencing prejudice, exclusion and discrimination;
- Children have a RIGHT to be heard within the European Institutions including the European Parliament, the European Commission, the Council of Ministers and the Council of Europe;
- Children have a RIGHT to be recognised as citizens of the EU; a statement of their fundamental rights should be included in the EU Treaties;
- EU Member States have a DUTY to support, promote and amend legislation to fully reflect and implement the principles of the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child;
- Politicians, political parties and political groups have a DUTY to give priority to children’s rights in their manifestos and programmes;
- The European Children’s Network members UNDERTAKE to develop inclusive and participatory work with children;
- The European Children’s Network members UNDERTAKE to promote the rights and needs of children through effective campaigning on children’s issues within the context of the developing EU.
Since its creation in 1995, the European Children’s Network (EURONET) has successfully campaigned for the rights of children in Europe and the wider world by putting their rights and interests on the European agenda. In the past, children were invisible in most EU policies and legislation because the focus was on the citizen as a worker, viewing children as victims, dependents or barriers to work. This is in contradiction to their status in the UNCRC, which recognises children as individuals with rights.

The European Children’s Network has since established itself as a credible voice for children across Europe, particularly within the EU institutions. Its activities are organised around three areas:

1. Policy development
2. Research
3. Children / Youth participation projects

EURONET members, together with children, young people and partners across Europe, advocate at both national and European levels for the promotion of children as citizens and rights-holders.

The European Children’s Network is also involved in policy development, campaigning for children’s rights within a number of key areas, including discrimination, social exclusion, and participation, and the development of an EU agenda for children.

Significant progress was made in 2006, with the European Commission’s Communication, “Towards an EU Strategy on the Rights of the Child.” EURONET was closely involved in developing the ideas in this document, which drew heavily on the recommendations of children’s rights NGOs.

The European Children’s Network continues to cooperate with EU institutions and partner organizations to ensure that the forthcoming Strategy leads to concrete change for children.

ACCOMPLISHMENTS

The work of the European Children’s Network contributed to the first-ever reference to children in the EU Treaties: the 1997 Treaty of Amsterdam. However, this does not bind the EU to take children’s rights into account in all of its activities.

EURONET was actively involved in the Convention responsible for drafting the EU Charter of Fundamental Rights (adopted in 2000), which included in Art. 24, the first expression of children’s rights at the European level. EURONET also successfully campaigned for the inclusion of specific references to children’s rights in the draft of the EU Constitutional Treaty, which was agreed upon in 2004. As this was not ratified, EURONET continued to campaign for the safeguarding of references to children’s rights in the Lisbon Treaty.

Associate Members: This category is composed of national or transnational NGOs or networks of NGOs who do not have children as their principal focus or national or transnational networks who are not NGOs. Associate members must be established in Europe and undertake work that has some benefit, directly or indirectly, for children.

Member organisations are expected to subscribe to the European Children's Network’s principles and objectives.

Why become EURONET members?

As a member of the European Children's Network you will become part of a wide network of children’s organisations, associations and individuals who work for the rights of Europe’s 90 million children.

Being a member of The European Children's Network also means:
- Benefiting from our strong network and contributing to our advocacy work and campaigning on EU policy and legislation;
- Being the first to receive information about latest EU developments on children’s issues, through EURONET publications and newsletters, regular mailing, and the members-only website and its discussion forum;
- Establishing new partnerships for your projects, conferences and events, gaining expertise and developing new ideas by sharing good practices with other members of the network;
- Disseminating your point of view and information about your organisation through contributions to our publications and by inserting your website link and short description into the EURONET web site;
- Helping us to develop new campaign work and projects with your ideas, donations and/or sponsorship.

EURONET Membership fees

Financial contributions from our membership are necessary to guarantee the independence and functioning of the organisation, the implementation of the European Children’s Network work programme and the realisation of awareness-raising campaigns and network activities.

Membership fees are defined according to the different nature and financial capacity of the organisation applying.

Membership Application Procedure

To apply for membership, organisations must submit the EURONET application form, which can be downloaded from the website. Applications for admission as a member should be directed to the EURONET Secretariat by mail or any other means of written communication (including email), accompanied by the following information: staffing, membership base, annual income, structure and constitution, principle activities.

The EURONET Management Council may require the Secretariat to seek additional information from the applicant organisation. Applications for membership are decided by EURONET’s Management Council.

It has close ties with UNICEF, UNESCO and the Council of Europe. The world members of OMEP include over 60 National Committees around the globe. OMEP’s objective is to use every possible means to promote the optimum conditions for the well-being of all children, their development and happiness within their families, institutions, and society. To this end, OMEP assists any undertaking to improve early childhood education, and supports scientific research that can influence these conditions.
Belgium

Founded in 2000, the Flemish Children’s Rights Coalition is a network of 27 non-governmental organizations for the defence of children’s rights. The areas in which these organizations work, the public they target and the levels at which they operate vary, but they all have children’s interests at the heart of their programs and aim to contribute to the application of the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child. The Coalition acts as a critical observer of the situation of children’s rights in Belgium and abroad. Its overall goal is above all to promote cooperation between the different NGOs. The Coalition has also undertaken dialogue with public authorities, national and international organizations and with the children and youths themselves.

The Coordination des ONG pour les droits de l’enfant (CODE) is a network of organizations which defends the application of the Children’s Rights Convention in Belgium and especially in the French-speaking Community.

Its main focus are monitoring of implementation of the CRC, writing the alternative report for the CRC in collaboration of the Kinderrechtencoalitie (Belgian Flemish Children’s Rights Organisation), study and lobbying in the domain of children’s rights.

Austria

Founded in 2000, the Austrian children’s rights Coalition, works for the Implementation of the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child in Austria. It represents family and children’s interests in the political, cultural and socio-economic spheres. The Austrian children’s rights Coalition is an open community, co-operating actively at the federal and local level in various institutions and bodies on questions of family, school and media policy, and children’s rights. It takes the initiative in all 9 of Austria’s federal organisations, numerous district organisations and 600 local groups. On the international level it co-operates world-wide with various organisations to improve the situation of children. The Austrian children’s rights Coalition’s efforts are geared to ensuring the welfare and wellbeing of children and respect for children’s rights.

Friends of Europe – Varna, started their activities in April 1990 as a non governmental organisation. The philosophy of Friends of Europe Varna is to create an atmosphere of tolerance, constructiveness and friendship to let children develop positive adjustments for a socially useful realization and to prevent them from the negative influence of the street in general.

The Center for the Study of Childhood and Adolescence (CSCA) is a non-governmental, non-profit organization which conducts research on children and adolescents, disseminates relevant findings and information to specialists and the general public, and provides consultative services to relevant organizations and services. The Center has as its guiding principle the belief that children and adolescents are full and valuable members of society and hence their role in modern society, their interests, their needs and views should be properly investigated and understood. To this end, the Center focuses its activities on three areas currently lacking in Cyprus: 1) research, 2) training of involved adults, and 3) consultation.

Defence for Children International Section – the Netherlands (DCI-NL) promotes and protects the rights of the child by:

- Giving information about the rights of the child to both children and adults
- Investigating and denouncing violations of children’s rights
- Taking action against violations of children's rights
- Establishing legal defence centres for children in less developed countries

The Polish Forum for Children’s Rights was created in 1995 and works to monitor and implement the Convention on the Rights of the Child nationally. It promotes co-operation and understanding with all persons aiming to protect human rights and freedoms, who are committed to helping children and their families and want to improve the situation of children in Poland. The Forum has a lobbying function in the sphere of protecting the rights of the child, analysing lawful initiatives regarding their compliance with the Convention of the Rights of the Child. The Forum, as a social movement, (without legal personality) is also actively involved in the creation of a space for Third Sector - for citizen's initiatives.

The Nobody’s Children Foundation is a non-profit NGO that provides a broad scope of assistance to abused children, their parents, and caregivers. The Foundation’s activities are addressed to physically, psychologically, and sexually abused and neglected children, their parents and caregivers, as well as professionals dealing with cases of child abuse. The main goal is to develop an efficient aid system for abused children, a system that would integrate activities of state institutions, local authorities, and nongovernmental organizations working for the benefit of children in the particular region. We provide short- and long-term assistance to victims of abuse and to their caregivers as well as psychological, educational, and legal consultation to people who have contact with cases of child abuse. We organize specialist training programs on problems related to child abuse for various professional groups and interdisciplinary teams.

"OUR HOME" ASSOCIATION is a Polish non-governmental organisation (NGO) which aims to reform the child welfare system in Poland. Since 1991 OUR HOME has assisted over 200 children’s homes and other facilities and programs for neglected children in professional training, disbursing financial grants, donations in kind or with other, non-material grants. The Association also helps individuals from child welfare institutions with vocational training, and manages independent living projects. The value of OUR HOMES’ assistance program has already exceeded the equivalent of 5 million US dollars. The Association has become the most important Polish NGO dealing with the problems of orphaned and neglected children.

Save the Children Romania was established in 1990. It is a non-governmental, independent organization, non-profit and a-political. It works to promote the rights of the child in accordance with the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child. It addresses itself to all children in Romania, especially to disadvantaged children. Its activities are based on the voluntary work of its members.

The Spanish Child Rights Coalition was legally established in 1997 to protect and promote children’s rights. Having as its framework the Convention on the Rights of the Child, the POI carries out different actions to reach the following objectives: To awaken society to the need for knowledge and respect of the rights of children; To develop dialogue, collaboration and participation within all private and public organizations related to the welfare of children and the application of their rights; To promote general and sectarian politics that promote the welfare of children and especially of those children in situations of individual or social risk; To encourage the participation and the socialization of children; To denounce situations that violate the rights of children by public or private institutions or private individuals.

Save the Children UK fights for children in the UK and around the world who suffer from poverty, disease, injustice and violence. We work with them to find lifelong answers to the problems they face in over 60 countries around the world. These are countries suffering crises, developing, transition and developed countries. We support young people to lead groups, networks and organizations so they can work for change themselves. Key themes of our work across the UK include poverty and discrimination (especially focusing on education and health), young refugees, violence against children such as bullying and physical punishment, positive parenting and citizenship. We identify and work with the most vulnerable children, who have previously been left out or forgotten.

The National Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children is the UK’s leading charity specialising in child protection and the prevention of cruelty to children. Founded in 1884 as the London Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children by the Reverend Benjamin Waugh, the NSPCC is the only UK children’s charity with statutory powers that enable it to take action to safeguard children at risk of abuse. The NSPCC’s mission is to end cruelty to children. Our vision is a society in which all children are loved, valued and able to fulfil their potential. In other words, a society that will not tolerate child abuse - whether sexual, physical, emotional, or neglect.
