EMRIP held first interactive dialogue with HRC

The Expert Mechanism on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples (EMRIP) conducted its first interactive dialogue with the Human Rights Council (HRC) at its 18th session in September 2011.

The work of the Expert Mechanism was presented by the Chairperson, Vital Bambanze, and Wilton Littlechild, who then took questions and comments from states and Human Rights Council accredited organisations. The interactive dialogue provided a rich opportunity for the Expert Mechanism to engage directly with states on its work in an open and transparent format.

The interactive dialogue, conducted together with the Special Rapporteur on the rights of indigenous peoples, James Anaya, was authorised in the Human Rights Council's resolution 15/7 of 2010.

The interactive dialogue was followed by a three hour-panel devoted to the role of languages and culture in the protection and promotion of the rights and identity of indigenous peoples, in which Vital Bambanze also participated. The panel, coupled with the interactive dialogues with the Expert Mechanism and Special Rapporteur, meant that the Human Rights Council devoted a significant portion of its time to indigenous peoples' issues.

The Human Rights Council adopted resolution 18/8 entitled Human Rights and Indigenous Peoples. The resolution:

- welcomes the work of the Expert Mechanism;
- welcomes EMRIP practice of devoting specific time to the discussion of updates relevant to past mandated thematic studies;
- encourages states to consider initiating and strengthening, as appropriate, legislative and policy measures that prioritise education in the design and implementation of national development strategies affecting indigenous peoples, on the basis of the past EMRIP advice;
- welcomes the completion of EMRIP final study on indigenous peoples and the right to participate in decision making and the inclusion of good practices in the study;
- requests EMRIP to continue to build on its previous studies, including its study on indigenous peoples and the right to participate in decision-making;
- also requests EMRIP to prepare a study on the role of languages and culture in the promotion and protection of the rights and identity of indigenous peoples; and
- further requests EMRIP to undertake, with the assistance of OHCHR, a questionnaire to seek the views of States on best practices regarding possible appropriate measures and implementation strategies in order to attain the goals of the UN Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples.
- requests the Expert Mechanism to contribute to the exploration of the modalities for the World Conference on Indigenous Peoples in 2014.

UNIPP Policy Board Approves Seven Proposals

The United Nations Indigenous Peoples Partnership (UNIPP) Policy Board reviewed and approved six country projects and one regional programme at its second Policy Board meeting in New York.

At the meeting, which was held on 27-28 October, the Board approved UN country programmes for Bolivia, Central African Republic, Cameroon, Congo, Nepal and Nicaragua, as well as a regional programme for Southeast Asia.

The approved programs have been designed in consultation with indigenous peoples' organisations and tackle various issues:

- In Bolivia, UNIPP will support legislative development and implementation of the ‘right to consultation’ and participation of indigenous peoples with an emphasis on highly vulnerable indigenous peoples.
- Nicaragua programme focuses on strengthening of knowledge and consultative mechanisms for indigenous peoples in order to facilitate implementation of the UN Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples (UNDRIP) and ILO Convention No. 169 on Indigenous Peoples (ILO 169).
- In Cameroon, UNIPP will support legal and institutional reforms with a view to enhancing free, prior and informed consent of indigenous peoples.
- Central African Republic programme will support Government’s review of laws, policies, and services to implement ILO 169 on indigenous peoples and provisions of the UNDRIP.
- Republic of Congo programme will support the implementation of the national law on indigenous peoples along with advocacy for ratification of ILO 169.
- In Nepal, UNIPP will support the implementation of the ILO 169 and UNDRIP through local monitoring, planning and budgeting committees.

Nepal: Access to Justice for Dalits

Marcia V.J. Kran, Director of the OHCHR Research and Right to Development Division and IPMS participated in the launch of the report "Opening the Door to Equality: Access to Justice for Dalits in Nepal," held in Kathmandu, Nepal, on 14 December.

The report, prepared by OHCHR Nepal, is a culmination of five years of work in the country and focuses on 20 emblematic cases of caste-based discrimination which the Office looked into.

The report recognizes progress made by Nepal in combating caste-based discrimination, including the commitments made during its first UPR review earlier this year, the adoption of the Untouchability Act in May 2011 and a number of judicial decisions sentencing perpetrators of caste based discrimination and untouchability to imprisonment. At the same time, the report identifies the challenges and obstacles that continue to prevent victims from accessing the justice system, such as low levels of awareness that caste-based discrimination is a crime; lack of appropriate support from law enforcement agencies; and the social and economic factors that further hinder progress, such as poverty.

Marcia Kran reiterated in her opening statement the words of Navi Pillay, UN High Commissioner for Human Rights: “caste is the very negation of human rights principles of equality and non-discrimination. It condemns individuals from birth and their communities to a life of exploitation, violence, social exclusion and segregation. Caste discrimination is not only a human rights violation, but also exposes those affected to other abuses of their civil, political, economic, social and cultural rights”.

Launch of the report also fell within the period of the 100 Day Campaign 'I Commit to End Caste Based Discrimination and Untouchability', see www.100daysagainstcastediscrimination.com.

UNDRIP Handbook Validation Meeting

IPMS organized in New York jointly with the Secretariat of the UN Permanent Forum on Indigenous Issues (UNPFII) a meeting to validate the draft of a Handbook for Parliamentarians on the UN Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples (UNDRIP).

The meeting, which took place on 25 and 26 October, was chaired by the Chair of the UN Permanent Forum on Indigenous Issues, Dr. Myrna Cunningham, and saw the participation of indigenous experts and parliamentarians, along with project partners: UNDP, Inter-Parliamentary Union, and UNPFII Secretariat.

A final version of the Handbook is expected in mid-2012.
The meeting discussed several issues including health, conflict prevention, indigenous children, and the human rights of indigenous peoples under the ILO Convention on Indigenous and Tribal Peoples No. 169 and the UN Declaration on the rights of indigenous peoples (UN Declaration), two mutually reinforcing international instruments. In addition, participants shared real life experiences of the rights contained in ILO 169 or the UN Declaration and practical examples of work that their institutions have done to promote education and awareness raising; complaints handling, mediation or conflict resolution; public inquiries on specific rights; legislative inquiries or law reforms; engagement with international or regional mechanisms; and work in partnerships with indigenous peoples.

IPMS also shared an advance draft of a Guide currently drafted in cooperation with the Asia Pacific Forum of National Human Rights Institutions and the Australian Human Rights Commission on how NHRIs can advance the rights contained in the UN Declaration. Very useful inputs and comments received during the meeting will be reflected in the preparation of the Guide. The meeting agreed on a road map for 2012 which includes specific areas for actions by NHRIs in the sub-region.

In its report on the situation of the rights of indigenous peoples in the Republic of Congo which followed his visit to the country in November 2010, the Special Rapporteur on the rights of indigenous peoples urged the UN country team to follow-up on the implementation of the recommendations contained in his report, in full cooperation with the Government agencies concerned, and involving indigenous peoples of Congo. Further, the UN Country Teams (UNCTs) should ensure that awareness about indigenous peoples and their rights is integrated into all planning processes with regards to programmes and initiatives developed by the UN system in Congo.

In response to the recommendations of the Special Rapporteur, and as part of the rolling-out of the UNDG Guidelines on indigenous peoples’ issues, UNICEF in Congo, under the coordination of the Resident Coordinator, co-organized a five-day training workshop on indigenous issues with UNDP and UNFPA. IPMS representative participated as a resource trainer together with the ILO and the Secretariat of the UN Permanent Forum on Indigenous Issues. The training workshop brought together UNCTs colleagues from UNICEF, UNDP, UNFPA, OHCHR, UNESCO, FAO WHO, IOM, HCR, UNAIDS, WFP as well as 16 Governmental and parliamentarians’ representatives and 21 indigenous representatives from nine different provinces. Mr Simon M’Viboudoulou, member of the PFII also participated.

In addition to presentations on the UN Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples and its complementarity with the African Charter on Human and Peoples’ Rights, the training covered the jurisprudence of the African Commission and the activities of its Working Group on indigenous populations/ communities; an overview of mechanisms available at international level to address indigenous issues - PFII, EMRIP, UPR and the SR’s recommendations; National Action Plan on the Improvement of the Quality of Life of Indigenous Peoples (2009-2013) and the Law No. 5 -2011 to promote and protect the rights of indigenous populations, promulgated by the President in February 2011. The participants identified a series of actions to be undertaken in partnership with all actors in the country, some of which are already included in the National Plan of Action.

The meeting concluded inter alia with the recommendations to discuss further the international requirements related to the right of indigenous peoples to be consulted through their own representative institutions and the need for practical guidance to assist the Government in its efforts to implement the Law on indigenous populations in partnership with the indigenous communities in Congo.

The 4th session of the Forum on minority issues focusing on the topic "Guaranteeing the rights of minority women" took place from 29 to 30 November 2011 in Geneva and brought together over 400 participants representing UN agencies, Member States, and the civil society.

The session was opened by the President of the Human Rights Council, H.E. Ms. Laura Dupuy Lasserre, and chaired by Ms. Graciela J. Dixon C., former Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Panama. Rita Izsak, the Independent Expert on minority issues who guides the work of the Forum, addressed the Forum through a video message.

Consistent with the contents of the concept note submitted by the Independent Expert (A/HRC/FMI/2011/2) the Forum examined the proposition that "women belonging to minorities frequently experience unique challenges and multiple or intersecting forms of discrimination emanating from their status as members of minorities and as women or girls. This may make minority women and girls particularly vulnerable to violations and the denial of their rights in both public and private life."

The discussions will be captured in action-oriented recommendations, which will be made available on the Forum webpage, and the implementation of which will aim at increasing effective participation of minority women.

OHCHR Side Event
During the Forum, OHCHR organized a side event entitled “Empowering Minority Women to Claim Their Rights: Identifying effective practices”. The side event complemented the work of the Forum through a focused consideration to how minority women empower themselves and can be empowered by others in very practical and concrete ways, both within their communities and in the wider society.

Welcome address was given by Ms. Isha L. Dyfan, Chief, OHCHR Women's Human Rights and Gender Section; and invited panelists were Ms. Mercedes Barquet (Member of the WG on Discrimination against Women in Law and in Practice, Mexico), Ms. Atieno Junnipher Kere (Executive Director, Women In Fishing Industry Programme, Kenya), Ms. Renu Sijapati (Feminist Dalit Organization, Nepal), Ms. Beata Bislim Olahova (Roma Education Fund, Slovakia), and Mr. Leonardo Reales Martinez (Ethnic Rights Consultant for AFROLATINOS and ECODESARROLLO, Colombia).

She issued a statement on 9 August, the International Day of the World’s Indigenous People, highlighting the fact that “many of the estimated 370 million indigenous peoples around the world have lost, or are under imminent threat of losing, their ancestral lands, territories and natural resources because of unfair and unjust exploitation for the sake of ‘development.’” (full statement)

In her opening statement at the 18th session of the Human Rights Council on 12 September, the HC stressed it is imperative “we examine and address the potential repercussions of economic upheavals on those people who are already living in precarious and marginalized situations, such as...minorities, indigenous peoples...” (full statement)

On 14 September the HC, in a statement at the Human Rights Council panel emphasized “There is a crucial need to uphold the rights of indigenous peoples, minorities, persons with disabilities, older persons and other marginalized groups, whose welfare is often bypassed or deliberately forfeited in the pursuit of short-sighted economic growth policies.” (full statement)

On 22 September, in her opening address to the High-level Meeting of the General Assembly to commemorate the 10th anniversary of the adoption of the Durban Declaration and Programme of Action (DDPA), the HC reminded that the DDPA “speaks of the plight of minorities, such as the Roma, of people of African and Asian descent, of migrants and indigenous peoples.” (full statement)

OHCHR expressed deep concern about the anti-Roma demonstrations that have been occurring in Bulgaria on 4 October. (briefing note) The Office also urged the Egyptian authorities on 11 October, to ensure the protection of all, including minority groups, in their rightful exercise of their rights to freedom of peaceful assembly and expression. Special Procedures of the Human Rights Council

Moldova: Fostering a public culture of diversity

Special Rapporteur on freedom of religion or belief, Heiner Bielefeldt, visited the Republic of Moldova, including its Transnistrian region, from 1 to 8 September 2011.

In his statement after the mission he noted that he was “particularly struck by obstacles deriving mainly from the overly predominant position of the Orthodox Church, which enjoys a privileged status at variance with the Constitutional guarantee of a secular state.” He called upon the Government to take leadership in fostering a public culture of diversity, by issuing a robust anti-discrimination law. (full statement)

Morocco and Western Sahara: Better promote cultural diversity

Independent Expert in the field of cultural rights, Farida Shaheed, at the conclusion of her mission to Morocco (5-16 September) urged the Government to promote cultural rights and diversity in the country, by expanding current initiatives and reaching all cultural communities, including minorities.

“The new Constitution places greater emphasis on cultural rights and diversity and confers an official status to the languages of the Amazigh population, and I call upon the government to make a tangible reality of these commitments...” (full statement)

Kazakhstan: Investing in inclusive education crucial

Special Rapporteur on the right to education, Kishore Singh, visited Kazakhstan from 12 to 20 September to collect first-hand information on the situation of education in the country.

At the end of his visit, the special rapporteur commended Kazakhstan’s efforts to ensure education in different languages and called for enhanced support to minority language schools. “One of the strengths of Kazakhstan is its unique cultural diversity and education in multiple languages is essential to preserve and promote such a precious asset.” (full statement)
Minorities denied their right to safe water and sanitation
Special Rapporteur on the human rights to safe drinking water and sanitation, Catarina de Albuquerque, released her mission reports on the United States of America, Japan and Slovenia.

During her mission to Japan (20-28 July 2010), Ms. de Albuquerque focused on the enjoyment of the rights to water and to sanitation in relation to poverty, homelessness, persons with disabilities, the situation of underserved persons of Korean descent, and prisoners. She explains: “I met an old woman near Kyoto, who lived in a community with no sewage system. This woman, almost 90 years old, still had to collect her water from a well; she did not have piped water in her house. And why did this happen? It happened because she belongs to a minority, she belongs to a Korean minority and because the community she lives in is entrenched in a legal dispute over the ownership of the land where they are living at.”

(link to the three reports)

Adequate housing: Minorities often suffer disproportionately
Raquel Rolnik, the Special Rapporteur on adequate housing as a component of the right to an adequate standard of living, and on the right to non-discrimination in this context, presented her annual report to the General Assembly on 21 October.

“Discrimination affects the impacts of disasters and the way these are addressed,” the UN expert on the right to adequate housing stressed. “All too often informal settlers, the poorest, ethnic minorities, indigenous groups, women, lose their lives, their homes, their land, to a disproportionate degree. In the wake of a disaster, they do not always benefit from disaster assistance as other groups do.”

Governments must ensure disaster recovery efforts are not conducted the detriment of the most vulnerable, she added. (full statement)

The cases detail practices that amount to torture, cruel, or degrading treatment of political activists, journalists, students, artists, lawyers, and environmental activists. The report also presents denial of freedom of assembly, women’s rights, the rights of religious and ethnic minorities by the Government.

“I issued several communications to the Iranian authorities to introduce myself and express my interest in visiting the country,” he said reiterating his appeal to the authorities to extend its full co-operation with his mandate. (full statement)

Albania: UN expert urges protection of the rights of migrants
The United Nations Special Rapporteur on the human rights of migrants, François Crépeau, urged Albania to further ensure the protection of the rights of Albanian migrants living abroad or returning, as well as arriving foreigners.

“The conditions of circular migration of the Roma population with neighbouring States should be given particular attention as their social status renders them vulnerable to exploitation,” the expert said. “There is urgent need to sensitize all sectors of society on the human rights of migrants and about the responsibility of the State to respect, protect, fulfil and promote their rights.”

Mr. Crépeau also encouraged the European Union to strengthen the human rights component of its technical assistance to Albania on her path towards European integration. (full statement)

SR on the Bedouin in OPT
Special Rapporteur on the situation of human rights in the occupied Palestinian territories (OPT), Richard Falk, urged the Government of Israel to adopt guidelines for the protection of Palestinian children living under occupation who are arrested or detained, in line with international humanitarian and human rights standards.

The rapporteur also addressed the plight of the Bedouin. “The Bedouin community has been victimized by more than 62 years of occupation, in which has endured severe marginalization, ” Mr. Falk said noting that serious concerns have been raised recently about an Israeli plan to forcibly displace Bedouin Communities in Area C of the West Bank. (full statement)

SR on freedom of opinion and expression on OPT and Israel
Special Rapporteur Frank La Rue urged the authorities of Israel and the occupied Palestinian territory (OPT) to lift all restrictions to freedom of expression, stressing that “truly democratic societies are measured by their respect of human rights, and in particular the right to freedom of expression...”

During his visit to the city of Be’er Sheva, the special rapporteur was informed that the Bedouin community lack clubs, meeting places and public places of worship for dialogue, cultural expressions and exchange of ideas and views.

First cycle concluded in 2011
With the 12th session of the working group, the Human Rights Council concluded the first cycle of the UPR review process. The second cycle, which will last for 4.5 years, will begin in 2012 with the 13th session (21 May-4 June 2012), in which Bahrain, Ecuador, Tunisia, Morocco, Indonesia, Finland, United Kingdom, India, Brazil, Philippines, Algeria, Poland, Netherlands and South Africa will be reviewed.

“The UPR has proved to be an innovative, transparent, collaborative instrument for change and has made it possible – for the first time ever – for all UN member states to be reviewed on an equal basis,” said Pillay.

“It has been truly universal, with Government officials representing every single one of the 193 member states, and very active participation by local, regional and international NGOs as well. Some 80 percent of Government delegations were led by ministers who travelled to Geneva for the review, which clearly demonstrates the importance States attached to the UPR process,” she added.
