Child Rights, Classroom and School Management

PHASE 1 IN LUND, SWEDEN, MAY 28 – JUNE 15, 2007
PHASE 2 IN TANZANIA, OCTOBER/NOVEMBER, 2007
Invitation

The Swedish International Development Cooperation Agency (Sida) is a government agency responsible for the major part of Sweden’s development cooperation. Focus on long-term knowledge and competence development constitutes a major feature in all development cooperation.

As part of its bilateral development assistance, Sida is offering Advanced International Training Programmes of strategic importance to the social and economic development of cooperating countries based on their identified priorities and needs. In the long-term perspective, the programmes aim to contribute to strengthening institutional building and capacity development in the cooperating countries.

In cooperation with Lund University a programme covering Child Rights, Classroom and School Management has been developed. The right to, in and through education will be the guiding principle in the course and the whole training programme has a child rights based approach. This programme is also designed to give opportunities to compare and share experience with participants from other countries while taking into consideration the Convention of the Rights of the Child, Education for All and other internationally agreed declarations.

Programme Objectives

The overall objective of the programme, from a development perspective is: “to enhance the right to relevant education to all – an education that empowers the poor and excluded parts of the population to participate as active and informed citizens in all aspects of development.” The objective is to stimulate the transformation of conventional top-down approaches into participatory rights based, learner-friendly and gender sensitive approaches to teaching and learning.

The goals of the training programme are:

- To develop skills, understanding and attitudes in favour of rights-based educational work at classroom and school level, taking into consideration the experience of the participants, a comparative perspective and the Convention of the Rights of the Child, Education for All (EFA) and other internationally agreed declarations.
- To stimulate and contribute to the development of methodologies in the area of child rights in classroom and school management at country level.
- To familiarise participants with Swedish and other international practices at school and classroom levels in relation to democratic principles and human rights.

Contents

The right to, in and through education will be the guiding principle in the course. The whole training programme has a child rights based approach.

- Policy documents and laws in subject area relating to the Convention on the Rights of the Child, EFA and other internationally agreed declarations.
- Child rights in the classroom context – The training programme will amplify the practical implications at classroom level of introducing protective, inclusive child-centred, democratic and participatory education for all.
- Child rights in the school management context – this part of the programme will be focused on the concepts of management and leadership and the understanding of the difference between the two concepts.
- Study visits – both during the first and second phase of the training programme the participants will undertake various study visits.
- Project work – during the training programme the participants will work with a project on a relevant task in the home country.

Programme Structure

The training programme consists of two phases. The first phase will take place during 3 weeks in Sweden. The main content of the first phase will consist of studies in the subject area, combined with visits to relevant Swedish institutions, including different schools. During the first phase all participants will be assigned a mentor. Moreover, the participants will be conducting a project work on a part time basis during 5 months within the CRC area in their home country. The project work will be de-decided upon their stay in Sweden and should have a high degree of practical relevance for the participants and their home organisation. The second phase consist of a seminar with focus on the project work during 2 weeks in Tanzania. The participants will be asked to develop, discuss and present plans for applying the programme content in their work. Finally, a couple of months after phase two in Tanzania, a follow-up visit will be conducted by the mentor in one of the participants’ home country.

Date and place
The programme will take place during the period May 28th – June 15th, 2007 in Lund, Sweden, including a field trip to Stockholm. The second phase of the programme will take place during Oct/Nov; 2007 in Tanzania.

Teaching
The programme comprises lectures, workshops, study visits and a project work. Lectures by invited experts on the key areas will be held. The project work will go on during the whole period of the training programme and will be carried out in groups of 2–3 participants.

Presentation of Program Secretariat
Lund is situated in south-western Sweden, in the province of Scania (Skåne). The city was founded in the tenth century and still possesses a quaint, old-town atmosphere with winding streets and picturesque houses. Today, the city of Lund has approximately 100,000 inhabitants. Lund University was inaugurated in 1668. Located at the threshold of continental Europe, Lund University is now a major international institution. It is the largest single establishment for research and higher education in Scandinavia, comprising seven faculties (theology, law, medicine, humanities, natural sciences, social sciences, and technology) as well as schools for social work, physical therapy, education, music and drama. Approximately 40,000 students, including 3,000 post-graduates, are enrolled at the University. A number of research institutions, hospitals, research based industries, libraries and museums are also located on and around the university grounds.

Lund University Education
Lund University Education is a wholly owned university company specializing in the marketing, sale and quality assurance of commissioned education from Lund University. The university departments are responsible for the content of the training programmes, while the Lund University Education functions as a distinct portal towards the outside world, taking care of the administration of the training programmes.

Halving poverty by 2015 is one of the greatest challenges of our time, requiring cooperation and sustainability. The partner countries are responsible for their own development. Sida provides resources and develops knowledge and expertise, making the world a richer place.
